Dr Peter Brandson - BRN Founder & CEO

Dr Brandson has worked as a rural doctor on the South Coast of NSW for around 26 years.

It is demanding but rewarding work. Rural general practice, in his opinion, is the most satisfying job a doctor can have. Old style holistic medical practice means that both the doctor and the patients can enjoy continuity of care. A doctor will often be caring for two or three generations of the same family from the grandparents, and sometimes great grandparents, right through to the new baby in the clan.

As a single dad with four children, Dr Brandson understands how hard it is to juggle the work / family balance.

When relaxing, which isn't often since he has started the campaign seeking justice from NAB and reform of the banking and finance system, he enjoys time with his children, music and fitness training.

Dr Brandson also has an interest in politics. He has a big problem with how poor government policies interact with big corporate powers to make life much harder and more stressful for people than it needs to be. The combination of his own experiences (and those of others) dealing with banks, running a busy medical practice and looking after his family has lit the fire in his belly to create Bank Reform Now.

With your support he believes that changes that will benefit all of us can be made.
